(d) the reaction of Government thereto?

THE MINISTER OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY (SHRI MURASOLI MARAN): (a) to (d) Soda ash is classified under Exim Code No. 28362009 of ITCHS) Classifications of Export and Import Items, 1997-2002, and its import is free. The Government of India has not imposed any restriction whatsoever on the import of US natural soda ash in India. Individual US companies are free to export their product to India.

In 1996 Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Commission (MRTPC) passed a temporary in-junction on export of natural soda ash to India by American Natural Soda Ash Corporation (ANSAC). The commission, prima-facie, found that ANSAC was indulging in restrictive trade practices of cartelisation which attracted the provisions of the MRTP Act, 1969. The case pending before MRTPC has not yet been finally decided.

This issue was raised by the United State Trade Representative (USTR) this year. The Government of India has since replied to the USTR. It has been pointed out to the USTR that MRTPC is an independent judicial body and the executive cannot interfere in its functioning.
